Hello Friends!

Many people seem to believe that we are headed for gloom and doom, perhaps even the end of the world. But many people also believe that the challenging times we face are an opportunity to grow and expand in consciousness, to move away from our obsession with the trappings of the material world and instead embrace the energy of peace and love that was taught and promised by virtually every religious prophet.

I urge you to think for yourself about the messages delivered from the media and the other power centers in your world. Are they constantly seeking to sow division, fear, anger and even violence? Or do they urge mercy, compassion and cooperation? Look into your heart and read whatever spiritual teachings you follow and you will be able to discern the pathways of love and light and turn your back on the road of hate and darkness.

Whether you agree with your neighbor on any particular worldly issue is irrelevant to whether or not you treat him as your brother. For truly we are all one, all sprung from the same realm – call it God or the realm of energy or whatever you may. The Golden Rule is universal because we are all bound together, born from the same source. Strike out at those around you at your own peril! What damage you may do today will surely be repaid here on Earth or when you meet your maker. On the other hand, do good work in the spirit of love and kindness and you will reap those rewards in kind.

No matter how hard things seem to be, the Golden Rule is still the rule. And there are no exceptions to the rule!
